

SCHOOL TRUSTEES IN CONVENTION HERE

First of Two Federal Nomination Days To-morrow

TWENTY-SEVEN OF THE LARGEST RIDINGS IN CANADA TO HAVE THEIR NOMINATIONS THURSDAY

Official Federal Election Acts Necessary Early Because of Broad Expanse of Constituencies; Nominations in Other Divisions Throughout Country Will Be Made Week Hence.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—To-morrow will be official nomination day in twenty-seven federal constituencies which are of particularly broad expanse. By holding nominations in those constituencies one week before official nomination day in the majority of the ridings, deferred elections will be done away and polling will proceed throughout Canada on October 29.

The reason why the large area of a constituency necessitates a longer time before nomination and polling day is that the ballots can not be printed until after nominations take place. The printing of ballots occupies a couple of days, and in constituencies covering hundreds of miles, where means of transportation are sometimes primitive, their circulation takes many days longer, so it would be impossible to prepare for the polling in the short space of one week.

Nominations have already been made in a large number of constituencies throughout Canada and the official nominations in those ridings is consequently more or less a matter of form.

DEPOSIT IS $200
Nominated candidates must place their nomination papers in the hands of the returning officers, together with the deposit of $200 required under the law. The nomination papers must bear the names of ten qualified voters of the constituency and be duly witnessed. Nominated candidates may retire from the election contest at any time up to the closing of the polls on election day.

The constituencies in which nominations will be held to-morrow are as follows:

British Columbia—Cariboo, Comox-Alberni, Skeena, West Kootenay and Yale.
Alberta—Athabasca, Peace River and Macleod.
Yukon.
Saskatchewan—Melfort, North Battleford, Prince Albert and Maple Creek.
Manitoba—Nelson, Selkirk, Springfield and Provencher.
Quebec—Charlevoix—Saguenay, Gaspé and Port-au-Fort.

Ontario—Algoma, East Algoma, West, Port William, Kenora-Rainy River, Port Arthur-Thunder Bay, Temiskaming North and Temiskaming South.

B.C. CANDIDATES

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—In the five British Columbia ridings, in which official nominations will be held to-morrow there is no expectation of any changes from the regularly selected party and independent candidates previously announced as follows:

Cariboo—T. G. McBride, Progressive; J. A. Fraser, Conservative.
Comox-Alberni—A. W. Neill, Independent-Labor; T. D. Coldcutt, Conservative; David Little, Labor.
Kootenay West—L. W. Humphrey, Farmer-Labor; W. K. Esling, Conservative.
Skeena—Fred Stork, Liberal; George Bushby, Conservative; G. W. Nickerson, Progressive.
Yale—Colonel C. E. Elgert, Liberal; Grote Stirling, Conservative.
In the Yukon, Robert Lowe is running in the Liberal interests and George Black as a Conservative.

THREE FIREMEN IN SEATTLE WERE HURT

Bale of Paper Fell on One; Flying Glass Cut Two; Fog Was Heavy.

Seattle, Oct. 14.—While a fog that completely concealed houses and vehicles at a distance of 100 feet lay over Puget Sound and Seattle to-day, three firemen were hurt in fighting a $200,000 blaze. The Zellerbach Paper Company and neighboring concerns lost heavily.

Australian Girl To Marry Navy Officer in U.S.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Subject to the approval of immigration officials at Washington, Miss Geraldine Conroy, daughter of an Australian Cabinet Minister who voyaged to San Francisco two weeks ago to marry Lieut. L. A. Conlan of the United States navy, will be permitted to remain in California for six months under a bond of $500.

FARMER RETURNED $8,000 TO LOSERS

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—A few days ago an employee of the Winnipeg Hydro-Electric Company lost a satchel containing $8,000 from his car while travelling along a rough country road on his way to pay workers at the Lac du Bonnet power plant. The payroll was returned to the company yesterday by a farmer who found the mud-covered satchel in a ditch.

PRICE OF HALIBUT IS GOING HIGHER

Prince Rupert, Oct. 14.—Halibut changed hands to-day at prices which were the highest paid here for some months, due to the fact that fewer catches are being brought in as the season advances.

Mother Died Without Learning of Son's Death

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Mary McQuade, mother of California's "Fighting Pastor," who died two years ago, died without having learned of her son's demise. Mrs. McQuade was kept in ignorance of her son's death because of her advanced age.

LIBERAL POLICY ADS BIG ISLAND LUMBER INDUSTRY. IVEL TELLS MILL WORKERS

How the policies of the Mackenzie King Government have built up the lumber industry of British Columbia and will continue to build it up in the future was explained to the workers of the Cameron Lumber Company's big mill here to-day by William McK. Ivel, Liberal candidate in Victoria, when he continued his programme of non-hour meetings.

The lumber industry, Mr. Ivel pointed out, was vitally concerned with freight rate equalization. With freight rates equalized and millions of bushels of wheat moving as a result to Pacific Coast ports, enormous numbers of freight cars would come here.

To make their haul back eastward profitable the railways would have to find freight for these cars, he said. Lumber from Vancouver Island and other coast districts, he declared, would form a big part of this freight. In this way, he stated, the coast lumber industry would benefit enormously from the rate equalization advocated by the Liberal Party and attacked by the Conservative Party as "utterly indefensible."

The Liberal tariff policy, too, was best for the lumber industry, he asserted. By lowering the duties on lumber manufacturing machinery, he said, the Government had not only reduced the cost of operation, but had enabled the manufacturers to buy better machinery and increase the efficiency of their mills. Through this improvement they were now able to compete much more effectively with other countries in the lumber markets of the world.

In illustrating the benefit of the Government's tariff reforms, he referred to the case of one Vancouver Island mill which had to pay $20,000 for a piece of machinery which could be bought in Port Angeles for $13,000. Just at this time the Liberal Government, by lowering its tariff reform programme, reduced the machinery duty and refunded the Government's tariff reforms, he referred to the case of one Vancouver Island mill which had to pay $20,000 for a piece of machinery which could be bought in Port Angeles for $13,000. Just at this time the Liberal Government, by lowering its tariff reform programme, reduced the machinery duty and refunded the

DAWSON ADDRESSED PHYSICIANS AT TORONTO MEETING

Toronto, Oct. 14.—The future that lay before medicine drew comment from Lord Dawson, physician to King George, who was the guest of honor of the Academy of Science and Medicine at dinner here last night. There was the study of physiology and bio-chemistry on the one hand, and the study of man's changing environment on the other, he said. Human beings had come through the stage coach and railway periods, and were now in that of the aeroplane, and yet it was the same human being who was serving the human frame under those changing conditions.

LOWER CATTLE RATES ARE URGED

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—Western ranchers and farmers will stop raising cattle unless the discrimination against them in shipping for export is removed, declared Dr. L. R. Russell, Ormiston, Winnipeg, of the Federal Department of Agriculture. He charged the dealers were favored by the Atlantic shipping combine, and that individual farmers and ranchers could not get sufficient space for shipments to the Old Country. They were forced to sell to the agents in the local stockyards.

FIVE MANILA CHOLERA DEATHS

Manila, Oct. 14.—Five deaths and eleven new cases of cholera were reported here in forty-eight hours. The health department to-day warned the public to use the utmost care in the employment of servants, as practically all cholera patients taken to hospitals were waiters or servants. No foreigners have been stricken with the malady.

EUGENE SANDOW DIED TO-DAY IN LONDON

Was Fifty-eight; Formerly Was Known as the World's Strongest Man

London, Oct. 14.—Eugene Sandow, once hailed as "the world's strongest man," died suddenly to-day in London, where he had recently built up a practice as a health specialist. It is believed death was due to effects of a motor accident in which he was injured some years ago. Like Sigmund Breitbart, whom he followed as "the world's strongest man" and who died in Berlin only this week, Sandow was of German nationality. He was born in 1867 and is said to have been frail in his youth.

URGED MANY BE TRAINED IN BRITAIN TO FARM IN CANADA

London, Oct. 14 (Canadian Press Cable).—Several newspapers here gave considerable prominence to favorable comments on a general statement made by W. Bruce Walker, new Canadian director of European Emigration, regarding the Dominion's migration plans. The Daily Express, Lord Beaverbrook's paper, says Mr. Walker has persuaded the right kind of people to take a chance of success in Canada and to ensure that the flow of migration is steady and never too great, so that everybody may be absorbed and none thrown back into a discontented state of mind. Mr. Walker, especially, suggests that centres might be set up here for the training of agriculturists of the surplus of the unemployed and says this would cost far less than the present dole distribution. The Star, the evening edition of The Daily News, which long has been critical of Canadian immigration, suggests to Mr. Walker that Canada wishes the immigrants to take all the risk and the Dominion not to take any of the possible loss that might result to the individual settler.

CROSS-CANADA AUTOISTS IN B.C.

Revelstoke, B.C., Oct. 14.—J. L. Scrymgeour and E. Flickenger arrived here last evening on their automobile trip across Canada. They traveled over by train from Golden to Revelstoke and left this morning by road for the coast. They were the dinner guests of the Revelstoke Board of Trade last night.

FIRES IN FORESTS ARE CONTROLLED

New Westminster, Oct. 14.—Edward Walmesley, crown timber agent, received word this morning that the forest fire at Harrison River, which had threatened the lumber mill and townsite, was under control and that unless a very high wind should spring up, all danger was over. Standing timber near Stave Falls was also considered safe now, Mr. Walmesley stated.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGES FAILED

Everett, Wash., Oct. 14.—The manslaughter charges against Nels Peters, whose Silver Lake home was destroyed by fire two weeks ago, resulting in the deaths of his four children, were dismissed at the preliminary hearing here to-day upon grounds of insufficient evidence. The evidence tended to show the fire resulted from a drunken orgy preceding it.

Hot Bath Caused Death of Child

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—Miss Josephine Laidlaw, a nurse at the Home of the Good Shepherd here, who last Sunday placed Donald Simpson, two-and-one-half years old, in a scalding bath, inflicting severe burns, was acquitted by a coroner's jury last night. The baby, the verdict declared, had been in indifferent health and died of shock.

MAN IS KILLED IN CALIFORNIA EXPLOSION

Long Beach, Calif., Oct. 14.—Climbing into an empty gasoline storage tank to make repairs, H. G. Ware, thirty, was fatally injured when the flame of his welding torch ignited accumulated vapors and caused an explosion which destroyed the tank and buried him in its wreckage.

CESAREWITCH RACE WAS WON BY FORESTI

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 14.—Foresti, a French-bred gelding by Negorfo of Foresti, to-day won the Cesarewitch Stakes, carrying £1,000 extras, over a distance of 2½ miles. Foresti was second in the field of thirty-three and S. Collier's Confirmation was third. Foresti is one of the string of racers owned by A. K. Macomber, United States sportsman, who maintains a big stable in France. Foresti won by a length and a half, while Motley beat Confirmation for second place by a neck. The betting against the winner was twenty to one, against Motley forty to one and against Confirmation twenty-eight to one.

DELEGATES FROM ALL PARTS OF PROVINCE IN CITY TO DEBATE SCHOOL QUESTIONS

President G. A. Grant Points to Great Achievements of Last Twenty-two Years by School Trustees; Big Programme Prepared for Three Days of Session.

The twenty-second annual convention of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association opened this morning at the Alexandra Hall, with delegates attending from all parts of the Province. On behalf of Mayor Carl Pendray, who is out of town, Alderman and School Trustee P. R. Brown welcomed the convention. He asked the delegates to give close study to means of keeping education costs as low as possible, balancing efficiency in school systems with economy in expending funds provided by the ratepayers through the Council's tax levy. He quoted Victoria's school population at 6,000, and directed the attention of the delegates to the $250,000 Crystal Garden.

Chairman George Jay of the Victoria School Board welcomed the delegates, pointing out that this city has one of the largest high schools in the Province, with over 1,000 students, and four large private educational institutions. The welcoming addresses followed opening prayers led by Rev. Dr. W. Leslie Clay.

DEAN COLEMAN OUTLINES BASIS OF EDUCATION

Addresses Trustees' Convention at Morning Session

Dean H. T. J. Coleman of the University of British Columbia addressed the School Trustees' Convention this morning, speaking on "Some Fundamental Principles in Education." "Education must always be regarded as an asset and never as a liability," he said, but considered sane and reasonable the general desire that the educational survey, recently concluded, should suggest means to cut waste from the educational system of the Province. "Education is a continuous process throughout life. It is social necessity which leads us to concentrate efforts upon the immature. Modern preventive medicine seeks to prolong our lives, modern education seeks to enlarge the span of our mental life." "In my judgment, the most fruitful cause of waste in education to-day is lack of adjustment between elementary, secondary and higher education. The child is transplanted overnight, as it were, from one type to another, with different teachers, subject matter and environment. New demands are made on the pupil, whose mentality and instincts remain practically the same. Such violation of nature's principle of gradual development is bound to result in waste of time and energy," he said.

"Culture, which has no bearing upon life is exotic, artificial, meaningless as the buttons on the back of a man's dress coat or the nose ring of an African savage," declared the Dean.

"On the other hand, vocational education that does not broaden the mind is inhuman and degrading. Two types of men ought to be abated as public nuisances, one speaks of culture as something that flowers in a cloister, the other regards man as a machine to the end, and so argues in his support of vocational training. Man has within him a creative element never fathomed, and we should conduct our experiments with human nature with circumspection and much modesty."

WARRANT OUT IN NOVA SCOTIA FOR FORMER OFFICIAL

Government Charges Shortage in Funds Against Ex-Secretary of Industries

Halifax, Oct. 14.—Information has been laid and a warrant issued against W. B. McCoy, former Nova Scotia Secretary of Immigration and Industries, alleging a shortage of $4,900, according to a statement made by Hon. J. C. Douglas, Attorney-General. The alleged shortage, it was said, resulted from the non-collection of instalments due on land purchases and amounts advanced to settlers and shortages in the department accounts.

HANNAY TRIAL IS SET FOR VICTORIA

Breaking and Entering Charge; Objections to Trial in Nanaimo

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—Closely guarded by three armed Provincial police constables, George Hannay, awaiting trial on a breaking and entering charge, appeared before Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in Supreme Court here to-day and sought a change of venue for his trial from Nanaimo to Victoria.

The application was granted and the trial will be heard at the Victoria assizes, which are to open October 20. Hannay was not represented by counsel.

"Trial in the ordinary course would have been before a Nanaimo jury, but Hannay, in an affidavit, deposed that the jurors were prejudiced against him."

THREE EX-POLICEMEN ARE SENT TO PRISON

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Three former San Francisco policemen, a lieutenant and two patrolmen, convicted of aiding in landing liquor from a boat at South San Francisco in January, 1923, were ordered to prison to-day by a ruling of the United States circuit court of appeal.

MR. BRUCE WALKER ON THE JOB

CABLED ADVICES FROM LONDON inform us that several Old Country newspapers have given considerable prominence to favorable comments on a general statement which Mr. Bruce Walker, the new Canadian director of European emigration, has recently made public. But it is not surprising that The Star—the evening edition of The London Daily News—should still keep up its peculiar form of hostility to Canadian migration schemes and take a gentle slap at Mr. Walker's statement. It does so by saying that the Dominion wishes the immigrant to take all the risk and the Dominion to take none of the possible loss that might result to the individual settler.

This is not a new attitude. For several years this particular journal has not found it possible to give Canada anything like a fair show. One day last year The Star placarded London with a "contents bill" reading like this: "Canada No Place for Emigrants." Then came the suicide of young Bulpitt on an Ontario farm and once again this journal indulged in editorial screeches for days on end. And its treatment of the story that unemployed men were marching on Ottawa during the 1924 session of the House of Commons was obviously intended to convey the impression that half the people of Canada were out of work and starving. No doubt the member of The Daily News staff who visited this country with a party of British journalists recently will be able to paint a different picture for the editorial directors of both journals. Meanwhile Canada as a whole is quite satisfied with the ability of Mr. Bruce Walker to conduct his department in a successful manner—successful for the Dominion and equally successful for the migrants whom he induces to come here.

PROSPECTS

PREMIER KING SAYS HE SELDOM indulges in election predictions, leaving that entertaining diversion to his opponents, but he will go so far as to claim that the Liberals will be returned to office, the only uncertainty being the question of majority. In the campaign of 1921 Mr. King made but one prediction, and the result showed that he was only two or three seats out in his estimate in a total of 235. On the other hand, Mr. Meighen claimed everything in sight in 1921, insisting that the Conservatives would have a majority over all parties. They came back with only 50, Mr. Meighen being defeated in his own constituency, and without a solitary representative from six out of the nine provinces.

Judging by the frantic Conservative press propaganda it would seem that Mr. Meighen's campaign is on the verge of a collapse, and that his organization fears a debacle like that of 1921. It need not fear anything so bad as that. The Conservatives are at bed-rock now and can get any lower. They ought to make gains in certain localities where they now have no seats. But the fight is between them and the Progressives for second place and nobody knows this better than Dr. Tolmie.

Mr. Meighen is confronted with a hard fight in his own constituency, which does not like his anti-Western policy and which probably will reject him again. In any case, his days as leader of the Conservatives are numbered, since another party defeat, whether he himself be elected in his own riding or not, will involve his deposition. Mr. Meighen is actually fighting to retain his leadership, and therefore feels he must sink or swim on his anti-Western policy.

ELOQUENT FACTS

MARKET REPORTS THESE DAYS ought to interest those Conservative candidates and speakers who are throwing stones at the trade treaty now in operation between this country and Australia. The Vancouver Province says that eggs, butter, and cheese are all soaring to the highest peaks of the year.

Wholesale eggs are being quoted at sixty cents a dozen for extras and supplies are short. Production of this commodity, in fact, has fallen off considerably during the recent cooler weather. Butter has now advanced another two cents to fifty cents a pound. Supplies from the Prairies have declined since the wintry weather commenced in that part of the country. At the same time the British demand keeps firm and "all the butter that can be produced is readily absorbed, pending the increase of supplies from New Zealand." It is finally pointed out that there is a prospect that butter may go considerably higher in the next month.

The condition emphasized in this market report will be obvious to everybody. It shows clearly two things. One is that there is no danger of the operation of the trade pact in question damaging the agricultural industry of Canada in these respects. The other is that there seems to be an excellent opportunity for the dairy farmer in this and other provinces of the Dominion to do good business.

MORE TORY HUMOR

ONE OF THE LOCAL CONSERVATIVE speakers says that under the King Government Canada has been drifting economically towards the United States. But his explanation of the condition which he tries to persuade himself exists is another of those humorous little sallies to which those electors who attend Conservative meetings are now becoming accustomed. His chief complaint seems to be that United States capital has penetrated into many fields of development in this Dominion. United States investments in this country represent something like $2,500,000,000. Quite a large amount of this has come in since the war. While the British pound sterling was only worth from seventeen to eighteen shillings in Canada the Old Country investor was almost completely barred. In the meantime we obviously required capital to assist us to increase our business in order that we might be put in a condition to commence paying the huge debt which Mr. Meighen unloaded on to Mr. King in 1921.

Would the local Tory speaker who is so alarmed about the assistance which American capital has rendered this country prefer Canada to be in a worse economic condition in 1925 than she was in at the end of 1921? Would he still have that adverse balance of trade with the rest of the world amounting to $30,000,000 in 1921 or the favorable balance amounting to $284,000,000 in 1925? Would he still prefer that $300,000,000 adverse balance of trade with the United States of 1921 or the adverse balance reduced to $80,000,000 in 1925?

A condition much worse than that of 1921 would have been upon us in 1925 if it had not been for the friendly invasion of capital from the neighboring republic during the period in which the pound sterling has been at a discount. Incidentally, American capital requires no special invitation to come to Canada. It knows Canada is all right and ignores the outpourings of the prophets of gloom.

TARIFF NOVELTIES

TORYISM IN QUEBEC IS ADVOCATING a "uniform tariff." One Tory journal in Toronto wants a "sixty per cent. tariff." These are the tariffs of the mustard-plaster type. Make 'em strong enough and they will do the country good, as it were.

Advocates of this policy want a high tariff to protect Canada against the manufactured products of other nations. But they seem to forget that no less than twenty-nine per cent. of our imports are not manufactured goods at all and that eleven per cent. are only partly manufactured. It will be patent, of course, that these two groups include the raw products and partially manufactured goods which Canadian manufacturers need in their business and require free of duty. Would the Tory journal of Toronto slap a sixty per cent. duty on these things? Would it also fleece the consumer by penalizing such products as bananas, oranges, and grapefruit, which can not be grown in Canada, with a sixty per cent. duty? And it is also to be noted that the manufactured articles include a fairly wide variety of goods which can not be made in Canada economically. Taxing these sixty per cent. would be a direct levy on the consumer.

These arguments do not appeal to the high protectionist because they completely expose the absurdity of his doctrine when it is examined in the light of the majority's interest. It is the majority, however, which must be considered. The Tories prefer to take care of the few.

One of the flies in the ointment at Locarno seems to be France's relations with Poland. The republic hesitates to drop her eastern ally in a general rearrangement of the European concert. But would it not be a good thing to let go anything likely to cause trouble in the future in the interest of all the nations as a whole?

Mr. Meighen's apologists are still trying, quite unsuccessfully, of course, to make out that what he said about the measure of justice which the West has obtained in the matter of freight rates is not exactly what he meant. The fact still remains, however, that if the Conservative leader could have his way Victoria's change of development would be pretty slim.

At the annual conference of the Conservative Party at Brighton the other day Premier Baldwin said he had been told that Britain wanted a Mussolini. "But," he replied, "the English will never tolerate a dictator." The Italian Prime Minister now announces that he saw nothing in Mr. Baldwin's remarks to which he could take exception. Some unkind individual will no doubt suggest that there are still thick-skinned people in the world.

DANIEL HUNTINGTON American painter, noted for his portraits, was born on October 14, 1818. He was for many years president of the National Academy. Among his paintings is "The Republican Court in the Time of Washington."

CONSERVATIVES BACK POLICY

To the Editor:—The Conservative Party in Victoria are almost frantic in their efforts to create an imaginary platform for their candidate. It would cause no surprise if they claimed for Dr. Tolmie the credit of having brought about the erection of the Johnson Street bridge. It reminds me of a recent incident when a lady asked of a Conservative canvasser what had Dr. Tolmie done for her. The canvasser pointed out the fact that he had known the Doctor ever since that gentleman was a growing school boy. That may be, the good lady retorted, but what has he done for you? The canvasser, however, was not deterred, and Victoria has not. It would, therefore, seem that the local Conservatives are relying on the popularity of their candidate.

The electors should carefully view the situation before casting their votes, especially at a critical time like the present, when the issues are at stake. The civic taxpayers, having decided by their recent vote that they wanted a grain elevator, would prefer to have it filled with grain rather than with empty Conservative promises. Therefore, there should be absolutely no hesitation on the part of the intelligent citizens of Victoria to get behind W. M. Ivel and the Liberal Party in this campaign, and cast their votes accordingly on October 23, election day.

Quebec Tories and the West

(From The Manitoba Free Press)

The West should keep an eye on the Conservative campaign being waged in Quebec by Hon. E. L. Patenaude, who is relying on the assistance from two newspapers, the Star and the Gazette. Mr. Patenaude is trying to win votes in Quebec for the Conservative party, the leader of which is Hon. Arthur Meighen. At the present moment Hon. Arthur Meighen is in the West making a tour of inspection for the Conservative party. In the last parliament the Conservative party had no supporters from the province of Quebec. The Conservative party admits that it must capture twenty or twenty-five seats in Quebec if it is to be in the running for the largest group in the next federal parliament. Therefore it is not surprising that they are conducting a most vigorous campaign in Quebec province.

Mr. Patenaude's policy in Quebec is to send "loyal Quebecers" to Ottawa in order to save Canada from the menace of the Canadian West. Quebec elects and supports a Liberal candidate in 1921; Mr. Patenaude is telling the French Canadians, but did they stand by Quebec. No. They sold themselves out to the Progressives from the West. Mr. King was elected by five members from Quebec and made slaves of them—slaves to the West. At one of Mr. Patenaude's meetings the Quebec members were referred to as "helpless prisoners in the hands of the Progressives."

The Montreal Star is shouting for a higher tariff, arguing that it is the very thing needed to bring prosperity to the towns and cities of that province. It doesn't happen to be the Star to the West. "Now the people of Quebec want to see the tariff raised," says the Star. They want to see their local industries, laying off men or employing them for part-time only—as Mr. Daniels pointed out at Magog had been done in the case of the Quebec millers. They want to start running ahead of the factory with full staffs. So the people of Quebec do not want the voice of the West to govern the country. Yet the people of Quebec know perfectly well that they cannot give Mr. King a big enough majority to govern without listening to the voice of the West.

This comes rather oddly from one of the centres of Canada where they decry as selfish and sectional any attempt by the West to stand up for what it believes to be its rights. "It is now necessary," says the Star, "to put only loyal Quebecers on guard. Those who are not loyal are daily selling to the West can no longer be trusted."

And the Star loves the Senate; loves it because it stepped in and blocked the demands of the West for western branch railways. "If they had only the House of Commons to deal with," it says, "the Conservatives with its double-barnacles of office from this province (Quebec) limply submit to the House of Commons, the reckless spenders from the West, they would get them through."

This is what Mr. Meighen's followers in Quebec think of the West. We are a bullying bloc of reckless spenders. Is this Mr. Meighen's opinion of the West? The Free Press holds and has held that a higher tariff, increasing the cost of production and of living, would be a staggering blow to the prosperity and the development of the West. The issue is clear. A westerner who votes for a Meighen candidate, no matter how good a citizen that candidate may be, is voting to put a heavier burden on the back of the West.

THIRD CANDIDATE MAY FIGURE IN COMOX-ALBERNI FIGHT

Special to The Times: Courtney, Oct. 14.—It seems likely that there will be a three-cornered fight in Comox-Alberni. A number of miners formed a Labor Party in Comox on Sunday and decided to put a candidate in the field. David Little, a coal miner of Cumberland with advanced socialist ideas, is their nominee and a great deal of money has been raised. It looks as though he would run. Little has worked in the mines at Cumberland for many years. The other candidates will be J. W. Neill, Independent, and T. D. Colden, Conservative.

LONDON TO WELCOME ROYAL TRAVELER

Prince of Wales Will Arrive in British Capital Friday After Long Tour

London, Oct. 14.—London is preparing a rousing welcome for the Prince of Wales when he returns home Friday after his 25,000-mile voyage to South Africa and South America. It is expected the crowd lining the route from the Victoria Station to Buckingham Palace will be a record one. Society is planning a gala night. Most of the smart set have arranged dancing for the dinner and supper parties, featuring novelties in the shape of miniature models from the battleship Repulse, decorations of Prince of Wales feathers and other souvenirs. The day's programme is about settled. As far as official receptions are concerned, these will begin off Spitham Friday morning, where decorations and a band will meet the Prince and escort him toward Portsmouth to the accompaniment of royal salutes from shore batteries. As soon as the Repulse reaches her dock she will be boarded by the Duke of York.

Those members of the Prince's suite who remained at home will be the next to greet him. His officers of the army and navy will add their welcome, and as soon as the Prince steps ashore there will be various ceremonies, including an address by the Lord Mayor of Portsmouth, after which the two princes will board the royal train for London.

Arriving at the Victoria Station at 3 p.m., the Prince will find his parents at the station. He will be met by the army and navy, and as soon as the Prince steps ashore there will be various ceremonies, including an address by the Lord Mayor of Portsmouth, after which the two princes will board the royal train for London.

Cordova People Fear Landslides

Cordova, Alaska, Oct. 14.—Fearing landslides, many families left their homes on the hillsides of Cordova yesterday, much rain having fallen.

An old reservoir overflowed, sending rivers through the streets. A stream six inches deep ran out of the front door of a furniture store. More than a foot of water lay in the basements of the principal buildings.

Coal Briquetting Proposed For Island

Way is open for coal men of this island to do a big export business with briquettes, according to H. O. Swarg, of Edmonton, expert on fuel chemistry, who is here placing proposals before coal men.

The Tariff and Labor

By R. G. DEACHMAN

John Henry Kedg, a laboring man residing in the city of Calgary, awoke at precisely 6 a.m. to the tune of a Big Ben alarm clock dutiable at the rate of thirty per cent. He stretched and yawned—(said stretch and yawn being dutiable at twenty-five per cent., and pulled on underwear and trousers taxed respectively twenty per cent. (British preference), and thirty-five per cent. He washed—then doled on a towel taxed twenty-five per cent. with soap dutiable at 20 a pound. John was more or less fastidious. He wanted to keep that schoolboy complexion. He used good soap. Ordinary laundry soap would have cost him a tax of only 10 a pound—general tariff 90 a hundred or nine-tenths of a cent a pound immediately and 40 a hundred or four-tenths of a cent a pound British preferential tariff. Note especially the absolutely scientific method of the tariff. It takes the heaviest. If you will have a good complexion, then pay for it. Beauty may be skin deep, but it's tariff high as well.

John's bath was taxed thirty-five per cent.—his watch thirty per cent. It is better to be on time than to arrive clean, hence the discrimination. He pulls on his boots, taxed thirty per cent., and stows down stairs on carpets thirty-five per cent. He picks up the morning paper printed on newsprint dutiable at fifteen per cent. and reads advertisements of merchandise taxed all the way from fifteen per cent. to fifty per cent. It is a warm morning and he scans the news before he lights the fire with Bennett's matches taxed seventeen and a half per cent.

We will not worry our readers with the affairs of the kitchen. Mrs. Kedg may explain that at a later date. John is a pretty intelligent chap and he did some shrewd figuring with a carpenter's pencil taxed twenty-seven and one-half per cent. Taking as an example boots, John wrote down an imaginary American price of $3.50. He added the duty, $1.00. That makes $4.50. Next came the wholesaler's profit. Let's call it ten per cent.—$4.50. Now my boots are $4.95, and retailer's profit 45¢. "The duty," says John, "is added to the cost of the goods, and the wholesaler's profit is added to the cost of the goods, and the retailer's profit is added to the cost of the goods."

John picked up his tool bag, taxed 20 per cent., with tools, taxed 30 per cent., and entered a Ford car costing approximately $150 more than it would if the tariff was removed, and went to work on a new building where enhanced cost of materials due to tariffs had compelled a curtailment in size and design which was a job the length of John's employment. In a few days John was out of a job, so he had plenty of time to write a political meeting at which he heard Mr. Irvine explain why the tariff was not an issue, and to another meeting in which Mr. Bennett said it should be far higher. And Mr. Bennett went home from that meeting having a bundle of tax free bonds, he clipped coupons with scissors taxed 30 per cent., until the very small hours of the morning, and the troubles of John Henry Kedg and Mrs. Kedg and all the little Kedgs never crossed his mind.

TORIES CALL ON BOWSER TO HELP THEM IN CRISIS

plans Mr. Bowser and Hon. H. H. Stevens of Vancouver will split the Province between them in the campaign of the next two weeks.

The calling of Mr. Bowser back into the fight as a Conservative was regarded to-day as a poor compliment on the part of the Conservative Party to its new Provincial leaders, who are drawn from the ranks of the last provincial election.

That Mr. Bowser is still regarded by the party generally as the strongest of the provincial Conservatives is the conclusion drawn from the announcement of his extensive speaking itinerary. In giving Mr. Bowser half the Province to cover in the campaign the Conservatives are not only paying a high tribute to the former provincial chieftain but have indicated marked fears over the election outcome. It was generally agreed among politicians.

FEDERAL ISSUES
Mr. Bowser stated to-day that he would discuss only Federal issues in his Interior tour. "I'm out of provincial politics," he knew, he told The Times. "I shall deal chiefly with fiscal issues."

Mr. Bowser will open his tour in Sumnerland on Friday afternoon. He will speak at Kelowna Friday night; at Oliver Saturday afternoon; at Penticton Saturday night; at Greenwood Monday afternoon; at Grand Forks Monday night; at Kamloops Wednesday night; at Cranbrook Thursday night; and at Kimberley Friday night. He will then return to the Coast, speaking with Hon. S. F. Tisdale here Monday, October 18, in the Royal Victoria Theatre. He will support Mr. Stevens in Vancouver on October 23 and will wind up the campaign at the eve of election, October 25, in North Vancouver.

bring low prices could be converted into these briquettes, which make a high class fuel and these could be sold all over the West at a good profit and still at a much lower price than the general run of household coal. Mr. Swarg explained.

AVIATOR LANDED DAMAGED AEROPLANE

Skill Saved Lives of Capt. E. Duncan and Companion at Mitchel Field, N.Y.

Mitchel Field, N.Y., Oct. 14.—The 1925 United States national air races yesterday brought forth a superb example of an army aviator's judgment, skill and coolness in the face of danger. With the left landing wheel and its struts torn away from the large Douglas transport plane, he was drifting in the Detroit News trophy race, Capt. Early W. Duncan of Langley Field, Va., nevertheless, made a safe landing in full view of the breakers.

Thousands who stood transfixed as they realized the position of Capt. Duncan and his passenger, Sergeant Moorehead, also of Langley Field, burst into cheers when the plane glided slowly to the ground with its motor throttled down, taxied along for 100 yards balanced on its one remaining landing wheel, and came to a stop by digging its nose into the ground.

The propeller crumpled against the ground, the nose of the plane was bent and a wing dragged some damage, but the two fliers stepped from their cockpits unharmed.

The loss of the motor struts when the plane glided slowly to the ground with its motor throttled down, taxied along for 100 yards balanced on its one remaining landing wheel, and came to a stop by digging its nose into the ground.

Captain Duncan explained that his plane, necessarily flying low to maintain its speed, struck a 110-mph. gust an hour and weighed down with the one-ton load it was required to carry under the rules of the race, which was a test of the commercial carrying power and speed of large aircraft.

In dropping, Capt. Duncan felt an impact, the under carriage hitting a telephone pole. He turned and saw the left part of the landing gear had been ripped away by the wires.

Sergeant Moorehead crept out of his seat to investigate and reported the loss of the motor struts. "Let's call it a ten-per-cent. job," John. "Now my boots are $4.95, and retailer's profit 45¢. "The duty," says John, "is added to the cost of the goods, and the wholesaler's profit is added to the cost of the goods, and the retailer's profit is added to the cost of the goods."

C.P.R. Officials On Visit Here

C. E. McPherson, of Winnipeg, assistant passenger traffic manager of the C.P.R., arrived in Victoria this morning on his Fall business tour of the coast offices. He is discussing local traffic with Capt. J. W. Troup, coast superintendent, and will go to Seattle to take up details of the moving of the C.P.R. offices uptown to the new railroad row.

A. J. Moxon, of Vancouver, C.P.R. traveling engineer, is also here today on one of his regular visits.

AT THE THEATRES

Dainty Billie Dove, the heroine of the latest Tom Mix production, "The Lucky Horseshoe," now at the Capital Theatre, felt like a real bride when she came down the long stairway on to the flower-trimmed set for the wedding scene, for nothing had been left undone that would enhance the scene and everything looked as if a real wedding were about to take place.

Miss Dove is a picture in her lovely little wedding frock of white chiffon over white satin—copy of an exclusive imported model. Dainty bow-knots of glistening brilliants trim the tight little bodice and flaring skirt, which is joined to the waist with a single narrow row of the same stones.

Her veil is one that all brides dream of—a soft cascade of filmy point lace gathered into a crown with sprigs of orange blossoms and falling softly away to trail yards behind her as she walks to the altar and her bridal bouquet a fragrant creation of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Following her come her two bridesmaids dressed in pastel gowns with large drooping hats to match. Her cinema aunt, who has engineered the romance for the "other man," a matron of humor, is gowned in a novel affair of heavy cluny lace over a slip of delicate pink satin.

"The Lucky Horseshoe" is totally different from the usual run of western stories. It is the tale of a westerner who loves the daughter of his boss and who almost loses the girl through his shyness. However, after dreaming he is Don Juan he decides that faint heart never won fair lady and arrives in time to stop who comes from the Old Country with a big reputation for her singing and acting in "The Beggar's Opera" and other big productions, is the latest acquisition to Victoria musical circles. She appears this week with the Coliseum Company in "The Arabian Nights."

Local Soprano
Memorial Hall

Mary McCoy Jamieson, soprano, fresh from the famous New York vocal teacher's master Pacific Coast Summer classes, Yeatman Griffith, in her recital last evening, before a large number of Victoria's musical people at the Memorial Hall, once more exemplified her liking for vocal art and her ideas relative thereto. She seemingly idolizes it. She studies religiously, and enjoys studying in these regards, without a single exception, all the songs she so well and contrastingly selected last night have been the thought and study of well-nigh four years. She has a voice of good-size, a clear tone of ample carrying power, and withal an extension much to be admired throughout all her registers. She began with three songs by Sechi, Handel and Lane Wilson, respectively, the beautiful Handel aria, "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" from the opera "Semele," proving immensely satisfactory. This was followed by two numbers in German, most creditably interpreted by Schumann's "Widmung," particularly so, "Gracie, 'Solvejg's Song,' and Schubert's 'Ave Maria,' with a 'cello obligato,' arranged by Major Harry Watts, feelingly played by Harold Taylor. The third, an operatic group, embraced the very animated song, "Villanelle," by Del Aquai, Massenet's "Il est doux, il est bon," from "Hérodiade," both in French, and both suiting her voice and style admirably. The last number of this group being the "Air de Rossignol," one of nature sketches by Saint Saens, a song without words, sung, possibly a nightingale wooing a rose. Her final group of these numbers proved quite charming. These were Rachmanoff's "O Thou Waving Field of Golden Grain," Bantock's cleverly written "Yung-Yang," from the Chinese poet Po Chu-i (A.D. 772-846), very daintily rendered; and Burleigh's "The Sailor's Wife," in all of which Mrs. Jamieson's clear enunciation, good taste, unassuming manner and perfect confidence were all matters for the heartiest congratulations. The recital was the recipient of many handsome bouquets, and she met with most generous applause throughout her programme.

Assisting in the programme were Rita Ormiston, pianist, and Harold Taylor, violoncellist, who gave an excellent and artistic performance of Grieg's "Allegro Agitato," from the Sonata op. 36. This number proved so delightful that those present were not satisfied until the "Andante" from the same sonata had been given in response to their insistent demands. Miss Ormiston is one of Victoria's younger pianists. She plays admirably. She has good tone and taste and possesses a keen musical conception. Her technique is ample and she bids fair, as time goes on, to enter the ranks of the chosen few. Harold Taylor, one of the most accomplished cellists of the Pacific Coast, again gave a manifold of his technical equipment, insight and knowledge of real cello playing. His tone has good depth and beauty, and his bowing is facile, deft and graceful. If rumor is correct we are soon to lose Mr. Taylor from local music circles.

Ira Dilworth is a capital accompanist, and his task was no mean one. He accompanied the singer with excellent judgment in support, cohesion and well-rehearsed efforts. The Daughters and Maids of England, Princess Alexandra Lodge No. 18, held the last of their successful sewing bees at Sister Baker's, 415 Jesse Street, Monday for their plain needlework stall in connection with their forthcoming bazaar. There were about fifteen members present in the afternoon when a delicious tea was served. At the evening bee a delightful supper was provided, thanks to Sister Baker and her committee.

FINE DOUBLE
BILL IS OFFERED
AT COLISEUM

A brilliant farce, "Arabian Nights," a magnificent picture, "Smouldering Fires," and exceptional music are all included in the Coliseum bill this week. May Rodwell, from English opera companies, has increased the strength of the stock company to the point where few companies can boast of greater musical ability. Humor runs through the piece from the time a son-in-law tells his first lie to the time the curtain drops when he is so smashed in the mists of falsehood that he appears past hope.

Frederick, who with Laura La Plante is starred in "Smouldering Fires," Universal-Jewel-Clarence Brown production at the Coliseum Theatre, is given a fine opportunity to wear gorgeous gowns, and also to afford example of how to combat by artifice the tell-tale marks of advancing years. Miss La Plante also wears some stylish gowns but she requires no artifice to play the part of glowing youth and health, for she is the younger sister of the woman played by Miss Frederick.

FAMOUS FIRE FIGHTER IS NOW FIRM ENGINE

In 1913 Fire Engine No. 24, the speed terror of Los Angeles, roared and bounded through the streets and veered to one side as a little extra girl from the movies jumped out of its path. Frightened almost to death, she was on the verge of fainting. Her companion took her home to cheap little apartment off West Seventh Street. But the horror of "No. 24" painted in big letters on the rear of the monster remained with her long after she recovered from the shock. A few weeks ago Claire Windsor was amusing a few players by lifting a shovel of coal into the firebox of an old-fashioned fire engine which was used to keep up steam in the "prop" radiators seen in the production of "Just a Woman," the first National production now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. But the shovel fell from her hands and she swerved until Director Cummings caught and steadied her. "Oh, my! That scared me so!" she exclaimed. Then she told how No. 24 had almost run her down five years ago. It was retired by the Los Angeles Fire Department with the advent of the gasoline-propelled apparatus. Now it is warming the star whom it once so nearly killed when she was but a little extra girl.

BOURASSA HEARD BY
QUEBEC AUDIENCES

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Henri Bourassa, running as an independent candidate in the constituency of La-Belle, Quebec, spoke at St. Emile to a crowd that was composed mainly of native-born Belgians, Frenchmen, Italians and Germans. He held up the situation of Canada, separated by 2,000 miles of salt water from those countries, and urged the allegiance of his hearers should first be to the country of their adoption. He dwelt on the rights of minorities, and declared himself to have the same attitude toward the rights of the English-speaking Protestant minority in Quebec as he was for the French-speaking Catholic minorities in other provinces. SPOKE OF MEIGHEN "Meighen, in his person, in his speeches, in his policies, is the incarnation of everything I denounce, and have denounced for thirty years as contrary to the interests of the country," said Mr. Bourassa. Referring to "Imperialism," Mr. Bourassa remarked that "people dare to propose to us that we should hinder ourselves while in order to assist countries a hundred, yes a thousand times wealthier than our own. And we have accomplished this without thinking farther than the end of our nose. Should we continue this dangerous game? England, in order to preserve her Indian Empire and in order to acquire more colonies, will again have to engage in war. France will also have more wars."

TO-MORROW'S
HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15

A restless and unsettled day is forecast from the predominating lunar transits. The disintegrating force of Uranus in opposition to Venus may be felt in sudden upheavals or abrupt visitation of a hostile nature. It is urged that all change, removal or travel be deferred until more auspicious stellar rule. With care affairs may be kept together, despite annoyances and critical situations. Employment and new business are under fortunate sway.

Those whose birthday it is are under a rather critical ruling for the year, but business may be held together by overcoming the tendency to restlessness and impulsive change. Removals and travel are not encouraged. Conservation and prudence may defeat disruptive influences. A child born on this day may be inclined to be careless, restless and unsettled, not disposed to steadiness in any position. It should be kept in the employment of others.

Harvest Supper—The Harvest Supper in connection with St. Paul's Garrison Church, Esquimalt, will be held on Friday, October 15, at 8.30, at the Church House. The supper will be followed by a concert and dance.

Harry Charlesworth Home After Presenting Large International Good-will Volume to Librarian; Victoria Man Is Elected Vice-president of World Conference Education at Edinburgh.

After depositing in the library of the Peace Palace at The Hague, Holland, the register signed last May by 35,000 pupils of British Columbia schools pledging themselves to observe the spirit of fair play and good will among all peoples, Harry Charlesworth, secretary of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation, has returned to his home here.

The presentation was made the occasion of a small ceremony, the librarian and officials at the Palace accepting the register for permanent keeping. HEMORRHAGE WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR CHINAMAN'S DEATH

Fears of Foul Play Dispelled By Medical Examination; Body Found on Monday

A coroner's jury to-day returned a verdict of death from natural causes, after evidence from Dr. J. H. Moore and Chief of Police John Fry had been heard before Coroner E. C. Hart, over the death of a Chinaman named Gin Ling. Gin was found dead in a pool of blood in a room of the Dai Goon Club, according to Chief Fry's evidence, and the matter was first reported to the police on Monday, at 2:40 o'clock in the afternoon.

A post-mortem examination made by Dr. Moore disclosed that there were no marks of violence upon the body, but that the cause was a tubercular condition, with a cavity in the right lung, whence came the hemorrhage, which caused the man's death.

At first appearance, sprawled on his face in a pool of blood, the Chinaman's posture caused some alarm. It was feared that he might have been the victim of foul play with murder, not uncommon in Chinatown, the police were hurriedly summoned by a man named Kai.

Attended by Constable Charles Cremer, Chief Fry hurried to the Dai Goon Club, where the body of the Chinaman lay, on Monday morning. Chinese witnesses were questioned. Later the body removed and an investigation followed.

The Chinaman was identified by papers found upon his person by the police.

NEW SHIP GRAIN PLAN IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—Interchange of warehouse receipts between the new Spillers elevator and the Vancouver Harbor Commissioners' grain house, an accommodation which is expected may prove necessary if a heavy westward flow of grain materializes this year, has been sanctioned by the Board of Grain Commissioners. It was announced to-day by Col. G. H. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Vancouver Harbor Board.

The permit of the grain board members means that warehouse receipts may be interchanged between the elevators so that if a ship has a part cargo to take from the Harbor Commission elevator and a parcel to receive from the Spillers elevator, it will be possible for the vessel to take the entire amount at either elevator without shifting.

REALTY BOARD TO ADVERTISE

Will Direct Attention to Real Estate in Big Campaign

The largest attendance at any luncheon of the Real Estate Board, save the Midsummer discussion of the city manager plan, marked to-day's session at the Chamber of Commerce.

The board decided to embark on an advertising campaign during the next few months using display and classified advertising in the daily newspapers and possibly extending the publicity effort to include a "buy your home" campaign on the silver screen at the moving picture theatres. Plans for an advertising report by Alderman Todd as to the prospects of tax reduction next year, the board unanimously supported a campaign to encourage payment of taxes before October 31 when the city adds an eight per cent penalty to unpaid tax bills.

Changes in valuation charges and loan protraction fees were debated and left over to the next session. The Educational Survey report, just issued, was examined, the possibility of an increase in school costs of twenty per cent being mooted by Trustee P. R. Brown.

Alderman Todd forthwith qualified his prophecy of lower taxes in view of the new information pointing out "Councils have no control of school expenditures, if more money is demanded, we will have to add to the tax levy."

James Forman urged caution in criticism, after locating in the report a section outlining means of broadening school taxation by means of a committee was appointed to examine the survey report and make recommendations.

Land Commissioner W. G. Cameron and Major Kirkpatrick-Crockett were welcomed to the Real Estate Board, Chairman J. R. Bridgman introducing the officials and representing the largest real estate business in the city, with sales in the past few months in excess of $250,000.

MEDICAL MEN HEAR DR. ROUTLEY SPEAK

Victoria Medical Society Had Prominent Physician as Speaker To-day

Dr. T. C. Routley, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, was guest of honor and speaker at the luncheon given to-day at the Empress Hotel by the Victoria Medical Society. An address of special interest to the men of the medical profession was given by Dr. Routley.

Dr. Routley spoke largely upon the work of the Medical Association in Canada, stating that splendid cooperation would be given to this organization and that its progress had been marked in recent years.

The association's convention which is to be held in Victoria next June, when between 400 and 500 medical practitioners will be present here, took up a large part of the speaker's time. Accommodation for these visitors has already been arranged for at the Empress Hotel.

Exhibits and displays, which will be a feature of the convention, will be arranged at the hotel. The meetings will take place in the hotel ballroom.

Two special trains have been arranged for, one from Montreal and the other from Toronto, which will bring the convention delegates West next Summer. Dr. Routley said, Victoria's convention of Canadian physicians will be one of the greatest on record and will be a splendid advertisement for the city as a convention centre.

A large number of members of the Victoria Medical Society attended the luncheon meeting.

Head of Piano House Returns From Eastern Trip

W. Arthur Willis of the local piano firm of Willis Pianos Limited, has returned home from a visit to the East extending over six weeks, during which time he took an opportunity of visiting the well-known piano manufacturers of America, Wm. Knabe and Company of New York and Chickering and Sons of Boston.

Mr. Willis's trip was made in order to attend the golden jubilee of the Willis Piano Company at their headquarters in Montreal. At this interesting event he was one of the guests of the firm, A. P. Willis (now in his eightieth year) there were present some 200 representatives and employees of this Canadian piano industry from coast to coast, and the proceedings lasted two full days.

There were present also the two presidents of the Knabe and Chickering piano houses, of which the Willis Piano Company are the sole agents throughout the Dominion, and the distinguished writer and critic, Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, who is the music "arbiter" of the records of the wonderful re-creating electrical instrument the Ampico—another instrument represented exclusively by the Canadian firm.

Commencing the two days' official programme, a presentation of a handsome bronze bust of President Willis was made by a Western representative, Wellington M. Howe of Calgary on behalf of all the firm's representatives and employees.

A gala concert was held in the Windsor Hall, at which Mme. Germaine Schmitzer, played in her charming manner, Mr. Sigmund Spaeth gave an address on "The Common Sense of Music," illustrated by selections on the Ampico.

The Willis Piano Company opened their first store in 1875 at the corner of Notre Dame and St. Peter, Montreal, and in recent years have established themselves in one of the largest and most up-to-date offices and showrooms in an eight-story building now situated upon the corner of St. Catherine and Drummond Streets. Mr. Willis says that the firm's business in the East is quite

Arguments Heard on Combines Investigation Act and Criminal Code

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—Judgment will be rendered on Friday by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald on a motion on behalf of fifty-three Western Canadian fruit dealers to quash the indictment against them.

After argument yesterday the judge announced he would hear defence counsel in reply and would give his decision on Friday.

Most of yesterday afternoon was taken up by J. C. McRuer's answer to the objections which have been voiced by counsel for the accused. The prosecutor remarked he did not consider it necessary to discuss the sufficiency of the indictment.

NOT PUNISHED TWICE

Dealing with a point taken by H. B. Robertson, K.C., for the defence, Mr. McRuer said the offences charged under the Combines Investigation Act and Section 458 of the Criminal Code were not identical. On the same phase he pointed out the code stipulated that a convicted person could not be punished twice for the same offence. He said the accused could be prosecuted for either or any offence.

"But not both," interposed Mr. Justice McDonald.

Crown counsel argued the counts were for different offences although the same set of facts might be applicable to both.

Discussion Mr. Davis's contention that in the same indictment counts triable by a jury and counts triable without a jury should not be joined, the prosecutor stated that under Section 857 of the code each count be treated as a separate indictment, for which separate trials would be ordered.

PARLIAMENT'S COURSE CLEAR

"It would be most unfortunate to decide the constitutional points on a motion to quash the indictment," he said. "When Parliament made it a crime to combine, it did so advisedly."

He pointed out there was no appeal by the crown, but there was by the accused, should they be convicted.

H. B. Robertson, K.C., for the defence, repeated Mr. Sinclair's argument that certain preliminaries had not been complied with as required by the Combines Investigation Act before instituting a prosecution. These were that the commissioner had not made a final report and that his report had not been accompanied by the evidence when submitted to Attorney-General Manson.

DUPLICATIONS DECLARED

He argued that some of the counts should be struck out because they were duplications. Should the counts remain, in the event of conviction, his clients could be given two terms of imprisonment for the same offence. The penalty under the Combines Investigation Act and Section 458 is two years; but the code imposed a fine of from $200 to $4,000; and the act imposed a fine up to $10,000, and, on corporations, up to $25,000.

SAID TO BE ULTRA VIRES

Earlier in the day ten of the sixteen counts under the Combines Investigation Act and Section 458 of the Criminal Code were attacked by E. P. Davis, K.C., on the ground that the statute and the section were ultra vires. Counsel took the position that the Federal legislation, the basis for the ten charges which he discussed, concerned property and civil rights and was therefore unconstitutional because the British North America Act reserved this field to the provinces. On the constitutionality of the Federal enactment an appeal would lie to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London, and it is not unlikely this issue will be decided before the accused are arraigned, or, in any event, before the long trial opens, and evidence is adduced against them.

WIRED OTTAWA

Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald pointed out that the Attorney-General of Canada should have been advised of the argument of the constitutionality of the legislation, and when J. C. McRuer, prosecutor, stated he was not certain whether he had the power to speak for the Attorney-General, the judge directed the counsel to telegraph Ottawa for instructions.

Mr. McRuer appears for the British Columbia Attorney-General, who, as a constitutional question, should also be represented.

WITHOUT JURY

Defence counsel opened argument on the contention that some of the indictments were triable by a judge without a jury.

The Combines Investigation Act could have been enacted by any of the provinces, and the section comes within Section 92 of the British North America Act, said Mr. Davis.

The suggestion for the Dominion's exacting authority, he said, was contained in provisions relating to peace, order and good government and trade and commerce, in Section 91; but that involved the power of Parliament in criminal legislation, that is, criminal in the ordinary sense of the word.

NOT CRIMINAL OFFENCES

Contracts in restraint of trade were never criminal offences, argued counsel. Agreements in restraint of trade, being unlawful, would not be enforced by the civil courts.

To constitute an offence there must be an unlawful act or a lawful act by unlawful means. Section 458 of the code defined a criminal conspiracy as one which unduly limited competition.

"The Dominion Parliament cannot make this a criminal offence," said counsel, "if for no other reason than to take the position it is an unlawful act, when it is not an unlawful act."

UNDER COMMON LAW

A contract in restraint of trade was merely an offence at common law, he said.

The enactment required that there must be a criminal conspiracy to do something unlawful or to do something lawful by unlawful means.

Quoting the Combines Investigation Act, counsel pointed out the offence must be to the detriment of or against the interest of the public.

FINISHING CANAL AFTER 418 YEARS

Rhone to Marseilles Waterway, Five-mile Tunnel, Being Blasted Open
Project Was Before Cardinal Richelieu in Louis XIII's Time

Marseilles, Oct. 14.—A project that has been on foot 418 years is being realized this week. When the last rocks that keep the water of the Mediterranean out of the Rhone-to-Marseilles Canal will be blasted. Then will have been finished a continuous waterway navigable by the largest canal barges from the North Sea to the Mediterranean, by way of the Rhine, Doubs and Rhone Rivers and the Rhone to Marseilles Canal. The work will have cost 216,000,000 francs and besides the record for time consumed in its realization it will have surpassed all tunnels in Europe in rock and earth removed.

From the tunnel part of the canal, which is only five miles long, 2,300,000 cubic yards of earth and rock were taken, beating the record of the Saint Gothard and Simplon tunnels in Switzerland, which are longer but much smaller.

When Richelieu came from the scene of European politics as Minister of Louis XIII, he found the proposals for this canal in the archives of the state awaiting action. Religious controversies occupied the attention of France too much at that time to permit attention to such a broad scheme. Richelieu and Louis XIII, passed from the scene of action and all the rest of the French Kings came and went before the proposition again came to light. It was resurrected in 1820 for a brief inspection, and again forgotten until 1840, when a functionary of the Public Works Department drafted a plan for the realization of the project. It took thirty-nine years more to get it before Parliament, and twenty-four years more to get it voted. Finally the creation of a canal from the Mediterranean in the vicinity of Marseilles to the River Rhine at Aries, a distance of eighty-one miles, was authorized by law in 1903. It took eight years more to complete the preparations for the work, which was begun in 1911 and has continued uninterruptedly in spite of the World War.

The new waterway, completed by the Rhone-to-Marseilles Canal is the first to effectively cut what is called "the European isthmus," composed of Holland, Belgium, France, Spain and Portugal, and furnish a short-cut from the North Sea to the East by water to traffic of importance.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily in the Air

Copyright, 1925, McClure Newspaper Syndicate

(By Howard R. Garis)

Jacko Kinkytail was a monkey boy, and he was the hero of a story. He had a little rabbit girl named Bunty, and they were very good friends. One day, Jacko was sitting on a tree branch, and Bunty was sitting on a branch next to him. They were both looking at a hole in the ground.

"Can you get Uncle Wiggily up out of the hole, Jacko?" asked Bunty. "Look, he's down there. But you can't see him—the hole is too deep! Oh, isn't it terrible!" cried the little rabbit girl.

"What made Uncle Wiggily go down that hole?" asked Jacko calm and inquisitive like.

"He didn't mean to," explained Mr. Stubtail. "I gave him one of my honey cakes, and he liked it so much that he danced for joy. He didn't see the hole so near him, and he slipped right in it. Now the question is—can you get him up?"

"Yes, that's the question," agreed Jacko. "But what the answer is I don't know. However, I think I can help. Now listen, both of you. I will go as close as I dare to the edge of the hole and lower into it my long tail. You, Mr. Stubtail, and you, Baby Bunty, must hold my front paws so I won't slip backward into the hole. If my tail is long enough it will reach down to the bottom of the hole, where Uncle Wiggily has landed, and if he catches hold of my tail we can pull him out."

"Oh, Jacko! How clever you are!" cried Bunty.

"Don't stop to talk, my dear," advised the bear gentleman. "Jacko's plan is a fine one. I would do it myself if my tail were only longer. But it isn't and never will be. Bears always have little short, stubby tails. But come, Jacko, lower your tail into the hole. We must save Uncle Wiggily!"

No sooner said than done! With the gentleman-bear and little rabbit girl to hold him, the monkey boy backed to the hole and down it he lowered his long tail. There was an anxious moment of waiting. Was Uncle Wiggily down there? Was he still alive? Could he grasp the monkey's tail and be pulled out?

It was very still and quiet, and you know. Holes don't frighten me. I didn't hurt myself in the least and I was going to sleep when I felt Jacko's tail tickling me. But I am very thankful to you for helping me out. Now what we'll do, Bunty, is to go along with Mr. Stubtail and help him sell his honey cakes. It will be a jolly adventure for me, and I think—

But what Uncle Wiggily thought he did not get a chance to tell just then, for all of a sudden, while he was talking to Bunty, Jacko and the bear, the old rabbit gentleman began slowly rising up in the air. Higher and higher and faster and faster he was lifted up.

"What is happening?" cried Mr. Stubtail.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Where are you going?" cried Bunty reaching out her paws to pull him back to earth. But it was too late.

"Where are you going?" "I wish I knew! Oh, I wish I knew!" sighed Mr. Longears as he rose still higher in the air. "But don't be afraid. I will not let any harm come to him, and you shall hear where he went in the next story—that is if the ice cream pudding doesn't catch cold when it goes to sleep in the gas stove oven."

"What is happening?" cried Mr. Stubtail.

Wall Street TO-DAY

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

New York, Oct. 14 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—The specialties featured the dealings on the upside and from time to time various groups such as the oils, rails, equipments and steels were taken in hand, but found difficulty in holding their advances due to heavy offerings. They were forced to absorb. A shifting of operations from some of the recently prominent motor shares held the first named groups, at the expense of the latter. Money after renewing at 5 per cent. showed a firmer tendency and caused further uneasiness in quarters sponsoring higher levels.

The day's news touching on industry was constructive in character. The production figures and the week's steel review were the features. The last named disclosed a firmer start for prices and favorable turn in the October lookings. The metal markets showed copper quiet since prices at the year's high levels. While conceding to-day's news to be of a favorable nature, it is not so clearly that touching on industry, the market in its recognition of same merely attracts heavy realizing sales, and this quite likely is due to the recent distribution sale that is not thoroughly digested and still seem to be in progress.

New York, Oct. 14 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wall Street's stock market edition this afternoon says: "From start to finish the market went unrelentingly upward. There was no change for a short in the writer of advance as fast as one group tired and other was taken up. McCort's stores moved ahead of the rest with a gain of nearly 30 points to 135 where it was up more than 40 points in a few days. In connection with strength in this general group the street heard that an offer would be made to stockholders at a 10 per cent. exchange their shares for Kresge Dept. Stores share for share."

Local gas stocks were again featured and resulted in close to the year's high. Brooklyn Union to 93 and Cons Gas to 32. Consumption of gas and electricity in New York will make new records this year. Use of gas in industry is growing fast and domestic use for heating is augmented by coal shortage. However, no change in dividends is looked for until after the $1 gas rate suit is successfully concluded. Final determination is looked for early next year. A pool of relatively large size in reported in Brooklyn and hour will need a stronger tone and broadening of activity in stocks. Coming after some desultory selling which brought irregularity to the list, this strength was augmented by a number of leading rails. C. & O. gained more than a point to 107. N.Y. Central, B. & O. Rock Island and Southern Railway all improved. Pullman and Pullman Car Co. found offerings light and it gained nearly two points to 104. Macy is enjoying record business. Baldwin, American Loco, Amn. Car and Foundry and Pullman all gained more than a point. The Brady interests have been reliably reported as having an active hand in the Westinghouse sale. The company has been benefited substantially by Penna. R.R.'s order for automatic signals. Although some of the chief performers were subject to a minor amount of profit-taking in the final minutes of trading, the list generally was strong and active. Intl. Paper slipped off several points on reports that new financing was contemplated.

Chicago, Oct. 14 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat: Weakened technically by the heavy export call, the market was unable to withstand scattered profit-taking, and prices dropped sharply. To the majority the reaction was not natural. On the broad evidence of renewed support was reported and frequent surges occurred, but the absorption was not aggressive. News developments were without much change. The movement of wheat in this country and Canada is much smaller than recently, and indications are that the run will not increase to any appreciable extent. Export call remained light, the seaboard confirming but 200,000 bushels. Some rains were noted in parts of Australia, and this tended to limit new buying enthusiasm. Private messages from the Argentine indicate that considerable new crop wheat was raised by recent frost and that the prediction was for colder weather. Developments in the Argentine from now on promise to have considerable bearing on the price movement. The decline witnessed to-day was to be expected and we believe on any further recession the buying side of the market will be in order.

Corn: After early firmness prices dipped sharply. Trade was light and buying power hesitant. The commercial demand for old crop corn was appreciably active with No. 2 yellow selling at 8 1/2 cents over the December. Farmers have little old corn left, apparently, and the movement will not increase much for several weeks. The feeding demand this year promises to be fairly active. On recessions believe corn is worthy of support.

Oats: In a light trade prices sagged in sympathy with other grains. Commission agents were operating on both sides with price swings within narrow range. News developments unchanged. On good dips would buy oats.

Rye: Traded the leading cereal downward. Moderate business was in evidence. The export demand for this grain continued light, and as a result few care to take the buying side in aggressive manner without wheat showing firmness.

Chicago, Oct. 14 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—The failure of Liverpool to make a better response to our strength of yesterday resulted in a weaker and lower market to-day with prices off over two cents from yesterday's close.

THE TIME-WORN TOWN

By J. S. Fletcher

Peppermore was listening to these gruesome details with all the ardor of the born news-seeker. But Brent turned away.

"Is there anything I can do?" he asked.

"Why, there isn't," replied Hawthwaite. "The fact is, there is nothing to do outside our work. The doctors are doing theirs, and there'll have to be an inquest, of course. I've sent to notify Mr. Savage, the coroner, already, and I'm having a thorough search made of the Moot Hall and making enquiries about his Worship's last movements—there's nothing more can be done at present. One of my men has gone round to tell his landlady. It's a fortunate thing, Mr. Brent, he added with a knowing look, that your cousin wasn't a married man. This would have been a fine thing to have to break to a man's wife and family! About relations, now, Mr. Brent—you'll know what to do? I know nothing about his private affairs."

"Yes," answered Brent. "But I'm much more concerned, just now, about his public affairs. It seems to me—indeed, it's no use trying to disguise it—that this has arisen out of the fact that as Mayor of Hethelsborough he was concerned himself in bringing about some drastic reforms in the town. You probably know yourself that he wasn't popular."

"Yes, yes, Mr. Brent," interrupted Hawthwaite. "But then, you know, murder—I can't think there's anybody in this place would carry their dislikes to that length! Murder!"

"You don't know," said Brent. "But at any rate, I'm my cousin's nearest blood-relation, and I'm going to find out who killed him, if it's humanly possible. Now who is there in the town who knows about his public affairs? Who is there who's most conversant with whatever it was that he had in hand?"

Hawthwaite seemed to consider matters.

"Well, Alderman Crood, the tanner, is the Deputy-Mayor," he replied at last. "I should say he's as good a man to go to as anybody. Mr. Brent, he's chairman of the Financial Committee, too; and it was in financial matters that Mr. Wallingford was wanting to make these reforms you've mentioned. If there's anything known—I mean that I don't know—Alderman Crood's the most likely man to know it."

"Alderman Crood," remarked Peppermore, softly, "knows everything that goes on in Hethelsborough—everything!"

"So to speak—so to speak!" said Hawthwaite. "There are things, of course."

"Where does Alderman Crood live?" Already he was moving towards the door. "As I can do nothing here, I'll go to him at once. I'm not going to leave a stone unturned in this matter, Superintendent."

"Quite right, Mr. Brent, quite right. Neither will I," asserted Hawthwaite. "Alderman Crood lives by his tannery—the far end of the town. Anybody'll show you the place, once you're past the big church."

"I'm going that way," remarked Peppermore. "Come with me, Mr. Brent." He led Brent out into St. Lawrence Lane, a narrow thoroughfare at the back of the Moot Hall, and turning a corner, emerged on the Market Place, over which the night shadows had now fallen. "A terrible affair, this, Mr. Brent," he said as they walked along; "and a most extraordinary one, too!—I'll be more than a nine-days' wonder here. A deep mystery, sir!—and I question if you'll get much light on it where you're going."

"You said that Alderman Crood knew everything," observed Brent. "Aye!" answered Peppermore, with a short laugh. "But that isn't to say

Brent look at her with more attention than he would ordinarily have given. She was a tallish girl, whose figure would have been unusually good had it been properly filled out. As it was, she was thin, but only too thin for her proportions; her thinness, had she been three inches shorter, would have passed for a graceful slenderness. But Brent took this in at a glance. His attention was more particularly concentrated on the girl's face—a delicate oval, framed in a mass of dark hair. She was all dark—dark hair, in olive complexion, large, unusually lustrous dark eyes, fringed by long soft lashes, an almost dark rose-tint on her cheeks. And in the look which she gave him there was something as soft as her eyes, which were those of a shy animal—something appealing, pathetic. He glanced hastily at her attire—simple, even to plainness—and he wondered who she was, and what was her exact status in that big house, which seemed to be the services of a staff of domestics.

Brent asked for Alderman Crood. The girl glanced towards the end of the hall and then looked at him doubtfully. "What name?" she enquired in tones that were little above a whisper.

"My name's Brent," the caller answered, in a clear, loud voice. Somehow, he had a suspicion that Crood was listening at the other end of the cavernous hall. "I am Mr. Wallingford's cousin."

The girl gave him a curious glance and motioning him to wait, went away up the hall to a door which stood partly open, revealing a lighted interior. She disappeared within; came out again, walked a little way toward Brent, and spoke, with a timid smile.

"Will you please come this way?" she said. "Mr. Crood will see you." Brent strode up the hall. The girl, preceding him, pushed open the door which she had just left. He walked into a big room and, through a fog of tobacco smoke, saw that he was in the presence of three men, who sat in armchairs round a hearth where a big fire of logs blazed. Behind their chairs a table was set out with decanters and glasses, a tobacco-jar and cigar-boxes. Clearly he had interrupted a symposium of a friendly and social sort.

The visitors' eyes went straight to the obvious master of the house—a big, heavily-built, massive-framed man of sixty or thereabouts, who sat in state on the right-hand side of the hearth. Brent took in certain details of his appearance at a glance—the broad, fleshy, parchment-hued face, wide mouth, square jaw and small, shrewd eyes; the suit of dead-black broadcloth, and the ample black neckcloth swathed about an old-fashioned collar—he noted, too, the fob which dangled from Alderman Crood's waist, and its ancient seals and ornaments. A survivor of the past, Alderman Crood, he thought, in outward seeming—but there was that in his watchful expression which has belonged to man in every age.

The small shrewd eyes, in their turn, measured up Brent as he crossed the threshold, and Crood, seeing what he would have described as a well-dressed young gentleman who was evidently used to superior society, did what he would certainly not have done for any man in Hethelsborough. He rose from his chair and stretched out a hand.
